Diploma in Municipal Administration

AMCTO has created a single standard of recognizable academic accomplishment. AMCTO Diploma in Municipal Administration provides municipal professionals in any responsibility-area of a municipality, with a comprehensive grasp of the fundamental components of municipal administrative processes.

The program consists of the following course; Municipal Administration (MAP), Municipal Accounting and Finance (MAFP), Municipal Law (MLP) and Employment Law and Human Resources program.

For more information about the AMCTO Diploma in Municipal Administration including; course, registration details, electives, exemptions, etc. Please visit the Education pages of the AMCTO website at www.amcto.com.

AMCTO DIPLOMA IN Municipal Administration

Welcome to the Parliamentary Meeting Protocol Course (PMPC)

We are very pleased to welcome you to PMPC. With over half a century of history and experience, the correspondence offering of PMPC is the premiere municipal parliamentary course in Ontario. We are confident that you will find your participation in this educational endeavour fulfilling and informative.

This handbook is meant to provide you with information to help you better navigate and succeed in AMCTO's correspondence program. To ensure success, please take time to read this handbook and familiarize yourself with the policies, assignment schedules and marking schemes.

The primary purpose of PMPC is to provide a basic level of understanding meeting protocol to help you become more effective in your municipal activities. The course is designed to provide information, concepts and principles to help you improve your capabilities, skills, and knowledge in the municipal field thus develop professionally and advance in your career.

Learning is an active and internal process. Words and concepts must not only be internalized but also integrated with the complexities found in everyday life. Your learning is greatly enhanced when you make an active attempt to relate the course material to your own knowledge and background.

AMCTO wishes you success in our studies and have a successful learning experience. If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact us.

All the best!

Sincerely,

Rosita Bourke
Coordinator, Programs & Services

The PMPC course

- The PMPC course is one unit.
- The course includes 8 (eight) assignments that must be completed according to a schedule provided with the course materials. If assignments are not submitted in the allotted amount of time, you may not pass the course to be entitled to receive the certificate of completion.
- There is no Final Examination for this course.
- Once you successfully pass the 8 assignments, you will receive a Certificate of Completion from AMCTO.
- Successful completion of PMPC can be used to show behaviour/skill sets as part of the education component, in the application for the Certified Municipal Officer (CMO). To obtain more information about this province-wide accreditation, please visit the CMO pages at www.amcto.com or contact Membership Services at the AMCTO office.

PLEASE NOTE:

By following the standard schedule, you can complete this course within 4 months.

AMCTO anticipates that a student will complete two units per academic year. Students will not be allowed more than one year to complete any one unit, unless AMCTO grants an extension.

Method of Study

- PMPC is offered in a correspondence format or better known as self-directed learning experience.
- Correspondence learning is a very suitable style for the adult learner who may be trying to manage a work-life balance as they progress through their career/education goals. Learning by correspondence is not an easy task. It requires a very high degree of personal commitment and time management skills.
- The assignment package includes the following:
 - assignment due dates
 - assignment questions
- AMCTO will send registered students an email to confirm their enrolment. This email will include a link to access the course materials via the website.
- Assignment Schedules are available on the website during the registration period. Registration opens Dec. 1st and July 2nd.
- The cost of the course does not include the textbook. Robert's Rules of Order (RONR-12th Edition) will need to be purchased separately through www.amazon.com or other major online booksellers.

Roles and Responsibilities of AMCTO

- Coordinate and prepare the schedule for each term (Fall and Winter). Schedules (for assignments and exam) are available on the website during the registration period. Registration is open for 6 weeks starting July 2nd for the Fall Term and Dec. 1st for the Winter Term.
- Processing registrations that are not completed online by the individual student. This would include any cheque payments.
- AMCTO will assign you to a marker at the beginning of each term. Your email address (as provided at time of registration) will be provided to your marker for direct communication with him/her.
- Once your registration has been processed you will receive confirmation of your enrolment via email within 14 days. The email will include a link to access the course materials from the AMCTO website. This link is for registered students only and includes; Student Handbook (this document), Assignment schedule, Assignment package and Assignment Template.
- Robert's Rules of Order (RONR-12th Edition) will need to be purchased separately through www.amazon.com or other major online booksellers.
- Mail to you receipt of tuition fee after registration closes for each term.
- Late Assignments or Extensions will not be the responsibility of AMCTO or Marker. The expectation will be for the student to manage his/her schedules to adhere to the assignment due dates. However, we are aware of the sometimes difficult decisions students may need to make while taking the course and juggling work or unforeseen circumstances. It is strongly suggested that the student inform the marker and indicate the date he/she will be submitting the late assignment. Keep in mind, late assignments will not be accepted beyond 7 days of a due date and receiving a zero grade for one assignment may not have an overall impact on the final unit grade. Please refer to the Marking Scheme (page 11) and Education Programs Policy (page 20). The information on these pages will assist students to decide what to do in case he/she has a late assignment.

Roles and Responsibilities of Students

- Visit the AMCTO website when registration is open (Dec. 1st and July 2nd) to find and obtain the current; Registration Deadline, Registration Form, Student Handbook and Assignment Schedules (scheduled Exam Date is included in the Assignment Schedule).
- Register for your course with payment to AMCTO. If you are making payment by VISA or MASTERCARD (we do not accept any other credit cards), online registration is available. Otherwise, mail in the printed form with cheque made payable to AMCTO: 610-2680 Skymark Ave., Mississauga, Ontario L4W 5L6.
- Your completed registration will need to include your email address to communicate directly with your marker. Please ensure that you use only this email address to communicate with your marker – or with AMCTO.
- You will receive confirmation of your enrolment via email within 14 days of your registration being processed. This email will include a link to the AMCTO website to access the course materials so that you can get underway with your studies.
- We strongly recommend that you review the student handbook as an ongoing reference so you understand the workings of your course. This document contains answers to the many questions you may have about taking a correspondence course.
- All concerns or questions relating to the course curriculum, grading of assignments and marker comments/feedback be emailed to your marker for clarification and not to AMCTO. AMCTO will not have the answers to these types of questions and it will only delay you receiving a response.
- You will submit all your assignments directly to your marker via email. When e-mailing your marker please identify yourself in the subject line “Name and AMCTO ID number”. We ask all your assignments be submitted to your marker in WORD format. Your marker may prefer a different format and he/she will clarify this to you before your first assignment is due. AMCTO does not require to be copied in emails sent to your marker.

Updated

- Late Assignments or Extensions will not be the responsibility of AMCTO or your Marker. The expectation will be for you to manage your schedules to adhere to the assignment due dates. However, we are aware of the sometimes difficult decisions you may need to make while taking the course and juggling work or unforeseen circumstances. It is strongly suggested that if you miss an assignment due date you need to inform your marker and indicate the date you will be submitting your late assignment. Keep in mind, late assignments will not be accepted beyond 7 days of a due date and receiving a zero grade for one assignment may not have an overall impact on your final unit grade. Please refer to the Marking Scheme (page 11) and Education Programs Policy (page 20). The information on these pages will help you decide what you will do in case you have a late assignment.

- If you require AMCTO's support please contact Rosita Bourke, rbourke@amcto.com. If your inquiry is of urgent matter please call, 905-602-4294 ext. 225.

Roles and Responsibilities of Markers

- Markers will receive all assignments directly from their assigned group of students via email. We recommend that students submit assignments in WORD format. However, you may prefer a different format and you will need to communicate this to your group before the first assignment due date.
- Markers will use a tracking list provided by AMCTO for his/her group of students that will include each student's name, AMCTO ID and the preferred email address that was provide at time of registration. AMCTO will email the tracking list to the marker before the first assignment due date.
- Markers will provide each student with feedback and marks via return email. The preference on how this is accomplished is the individual marker's choice; by returning the entire marked paper, by providing a marking sheet or in the body of an email. You will need to let your group of students know how you will be returning the marked papers before the first assignment due date.
- It will be the markers responsibility to return the results of the graded assignments directly to their students via email before the next assignment due date. The exam results and final grade will also be returned via email to the students before submitting the final tracking list to AMCTO.
- Markers are expected to respond directly via email to student concerns or questions relating to the course curriculum, grading of assignments and feedback. In order to save time and to ensure all students receive the same learning, we suggest that you copy all your students when responding to an individual's curriculum related question or request for clarification. However, in cases where you feel the response may cause more confusion then clarification, it is not necessary to copy your entire group.
- Late Assignments or Extensions will not be the responsibility of AMCTO or the Marker. The expectation will be for the student to manage his/her schedules to adhere to the assignment due dates. However, we are aware of the sometimes difficult decisions students may need to make while taking the course and juggling work or unforeseen circumstances. It is strongly suggested that the student inform you and indicate the date he/she will be submitting the late assignment. Keep in mind, late assignments will not be accepted beyond 7 days of a due date and receiving a zero grade for one assignment may not have an overall impact on the final unit grade. Please refer to the Marking Scheme (page 11) and Education Programs Policy (page 20). The information on these pages will assist students to decide what to do in case he/she has a late assignment.

Marking Scheme

The final grade for the unit will consist of a combination of marks received on Assignments and on the Final Examination. The weighting of marks is as follows:

Assignment 1	12.5 %
Assignment 2	12.5 %
Assignment 3	12.5 %
Assignment 4	12.5 %
Assignment 5	12.5 %
Assignment 6	12.5 %
Assignment 7	12.5 %
Assignment 8	12.5 %
TOTAL	100 %

- Assignments will be graded by percentage.
In order to successfully complete the course, you must score an overall average grade of 60% or higher for the entire course.

The table below is provided for your convenience and comparison.

Percentage	Descriptor	Equivalent Letter Grade
96% - 100%	Excellent Very Good	A+
91% - 95%		A
86% - 90%		A- minimum grade required for the Diploma program Honour Roll
81% - 85%	Good Average	B+
76% - 80%		B
72% - 75%		B-
68% - 71%	Satisfactory Below Average Minimal Pass	C+
64% - 67%		C
60% - 63%		C- minimum required grade to pass the course
55% - 59%	Failure	D+
50% - 54%		D
49% and below		F

You will receive your exam grade and final mark via email from your marker. AMCTO will send official documentation 8 weeks after writing the Course Exam. You may need to submit your registration for your next unit before receiving your results. Any concerns or issues regarding your results will be addressed separately and will not prevent you from continuing with your next unit.

Assignments

- 1) The Assignment Package contains all the questions for all the lessons that you are required to submit for marking. Your Assignment Package is provided to you with all your course materials at the beginning of the term.

NOTE: The review questions at the end of each lesson in the textbook are not the assignment questions. Please do not submit your review question answers for marking.

- 2) The Assignment Schedule has been prepared to enable you to complete the course with sufficient lead-time to study for the Unit Examination. This schedule allows two weeks for each Assignment.
- 3) It is your responsibility to organize your time so that you can adhere to the established Assignment Schedule.
- 4) When submitting your assignment directly to your marker via email, it is required to identify; your name, student number, course name and assignment number (e.g. Jane Doe 424242 PMPC 1). If you do not already have a student number, AMCTO will assign one and it will be provided with your course materials.
- 5) We recommend that you retain a copy of your submitted assignments in case of unforeseen difficulties.
- 6) All assignments are to be typewritten, in 12-point size, and double-spaced. Number each page (e.g. '1 of 12'). The answers are required to be full sentence in essay format. On average, students spend approximately 10 to 20 hours on each assignment.
- 7) When answering the assignment questions, the grading is based on your demonstrated ability to share your opinions and your critical thinking of the course material.
- 8) If you do quote the course materials or other sourced information, you must properly note the sourced information. The citation guidelines found at the end of this handbook may be utilized for those that need examples.

Study Hints

Time Commitment

Successful progress for this type of learning requires, on average, six to twelve hours of study per week.

Study Suggestions

Students in any post-secondary program, generally feel that there is never enough study time, since most participants have full-time commitments. The problem can be resolved through effective time management.

Effective use of time is the key skill in successful studying. It is also necessary for on-the-job success. The first step toward effective time management is to find out how you are currently spending your time. Keep a time chart of each day for a week, listing the activities you do and how much time they require. Try to be as exact and specific as possible. It might be useful to log your activities for half-hour periods.

At the end of the week, examine your chart to see where your time is going:

- When can you find time to study?
- Can you save time that could be used for studying?
- Are you wasting time on activities that you feel have less value than the course you are taking?

Once you have examined your one-week time chart, draw up a study schedule. This study schedule must be realistic and possible, and the one-week time chart can help to keep you on track.

- Can you study every day?
- For how long?
- Can you study at the same time every day?

It is probably best to do the same task at the same time each day.

Once you have a study schedule, it is important to stick to it.

If you have planned your schedule well, you should be able to fit studying into your life easily, without having to give up a great amount of the time that you normally reserve for family, social life, or recreation. Let your family and friends know your schedule so that family and social activities can be planned so as not to conflict with studies. Let them know that when you are studying, you need to do so without interruption. A final word about study schedules and that scarce commodity – time. People with the most to do, seem to be the ones who find it easiest to make a schedule, stick to it, and to get more done.

It is best to have a definite and dedicated place for study, since such an area can enhance your powers of concentration. Granted, not everyone will study at home; some may study at the office during coffee or lunch breaks. Recognizing the problems of studying in these conditions is important; you must learn to sharpen your powers of concentration and shut out any distractions.

Having a dictionary in your study area is very important. We recommend that you use a dictionary while studying in order to acquire a greater understanding of the lesson material and to increase your vocabulary.

More Effective Reading

One of the key skills for success in any course is the ability to read effectively and efficiently. Like any other skill, reading must be improved through practice. Nonetheless, there are some things to keep in mind that will help you to read more effectively.

The skilful reader usually has three main objectives:

- to concentrate on what she or he is reading
- to remember as much as possible
- to be able to fully understand what is read and to then relate it to her or his own experience

Practice, diligence, and an understanding of the different types of reading are necessary in order to achieve these objectives. At least three types of reading are useful in studying:

Scanning or scan reading occurs when the reader “spot-checks” by focusing on various parts of a text. Scanning is what most people do when they read a newspaper; they move quickly up, down, and across in search of articles they want to read. People in business often read routine letters by scanning.

Skimming, like scanning, is a process in which the reader does not take in every word on the page. It is a “once-over-lightly” approach with the object being to sift or skim off the main ideas or details in the text. In contrast, scanning is usually a search for something more specific, such as the answers to certain questions.

Study reading is the slowest, most thorough type of reading. The reader is attempting to understand the main ideas in the piece as well as the relationship between ideas. It usually requires the exercise of judgment in order to make interpretations and draw inferences.

It is recommended that you approach reading assignment material in the following manner:

1. Scan the readings.
2. Read for understanding.
3. Review the readings.

Study Methods

Some adult-learners worry that they have forgotten how to study or, perhaps, that they never acquired this ability. Many are surprised to find that the basic techniques for learning are skills used in the workplace.

All study methods involve three essential tasks:

- finding out what you want to know
- fixing in your mind the information discovered
- applying that knowledge successfully

A commonly recommended study method is the 4S=M method. It stands for “four steps equal mastery.”

The four steps are as follows.

1. Survey your reading assignment by scanning the chapter and section headings, introductions, summarizing sections, and so on to find out what the assignment covers. Try to relate this reading assignment to the material you learned in the last assignment. Ask yourself if there is anything from the previous assignment that will help you understand this one.
2. Read the assigned material very carefully (study reading) to discover the main ideas and their interrelationships. Underline key points, number the main ideas, circle key terms, and cross-reference related ideas by writing their page numbers in the margins. In other words, read actively. A good way to discover main ideas is to constantly ask questions as you read. You can turn a heading into a question and then read to find the answer. Active reading or reading to find a specific answer is always better than aimless reading.
3. Review the reading assignment by skimming over the material. If parts of the assignment do not seem familiar to you, go over those parts again as you did in Step 2.
4. Summarize the material in your own words, paying attention to the key ideas and the order in which they are organized. Sometimes it helps to try to summarize the “message” of the reading assignment in a single sentence. If you can do this, it is likely that you have understood the lesson. The ability to summarize is very useful in writing exams.

Writing Tips

Most adult students appreciate the importance of writing well. Unfortunately, in a brief document of this type, we cannot give advice that will quickly make you a better writer. Writing is a skill that is developed through constant practice.

If you feel that your writing skills are less than they should be, you should look on your course work as an opportunity to improve them. Many handbooks on writing skills are available through the library or in the reference section of your local bookstore.

Before writing anything, you should always make an outline of what you want to say, even if the outline is only a list of the key points you want to cover and the order in which you want to cover them. An outline does not have to be detailed; it must, however, provide you with a sense of direction and order.

Writing a rough draft is also recommended. Drafts should not take a lot of time. They should be written as quickly as possible and should record ideas about the topic. Then you have something you can shape and revise.

By keeping a few points in mind, you can improve your writing. You might find it helpful to ask yourself these questions:

1. Can I begin the answer by restating the question (in my own words) to make it easier for the instructor to mark?
2. Have I used the fewest possible words to say everything I need to say?
3. Have I avoided generalizations that do not really answer the question?

If you write longer pieces, such as essays, reports, or assignments, you can often improve them by concentrating on improving paragraph structure, since paragraphs are the building blocks or idea units of writing. Ask yourself some of these questions:

1. What is the main idea I want the paragraph to convey?
2. Is there a topic sentence that conveys the main idea?
3. Do the other sentences in the paragraph support the main idea?
4. Have I included any irrelevant ideas that do not support the main idea?
5. Have I concluded the paragraph with a strong statement?

It is important to make a commitment to trying to write well. In a course, written work is often the measure of what you have learned; in your job, your writing is often the measure of what you know and think.

Refund Policy

A student who cancels from any Unit before the first scheduled assignment due date is entitled to a partial refund of fees less a refund levy of $113.00 (includes HST). In order to receive the partial refund, you must submit written notice of your cancellation to rbourke@amcto.com. No refunds will be granted for cancellations received after the first scheduled assignment due date. A student cannot transfer their registration or payment to a later date. No returns accepted or no refunds for the hard copy textbook.

Education Programs Policy

Approved November 28th 2014

Purpose:

As a Certified Education Institution, AMCTO is a leading provider of education for Ontario's municipal professionals with courses that provide a solid foundation for those pursuing a career in municipal government

In order to maintain its reputation for offering exceptional quality education and programs which are:

- Focused on the learning needs of adults;
- Pertinent, current and continuous;
- Relevant to demographic, geographic and organizational needs;
and
- Integrated within a Career Cycle Learning Framework.

it is necessary for the Association to establish, implement and enforce an education programs policy that govern the activities of students and others associated with the delivery of these programs.

Policy:

1. Scope

This Policy applies to all students enrolled in any of the Association's individual educational programs or diploma programs and to any instructors, academic mentors, proctors or markers associated with these programs.

2. Interpretation/Enforcement of Policy Provisions

Unless otherwise noted in a specific section of the Policy, the responsibility for interpreting and/or enforcing the provisions of this Policy rests with the Director – Programs & Services. The decisions of the Director – Programs & Services are final.

The Director – Programs & Services may, at their discretion, delegate responsibility for the interpretation/enforcement of Policy provisions to another AMCTO Staff member. In the event of disagreement, decisions made by these delegated individuals can be appealed to the Director – Programs & Services.

3. Student Submission of Assignments

- i) All assignments are due by 11:59 p.m. on the stated due date. Any assignments received by the course marker after this time will be considered late.
- ii) Assignments submitted late to the course marker will automatically receive a mark deduction of 10%.
- iii) Assignments submitted thereafter will receive a 5% mark deduction for each additional day of lateness.
- iv) Assignments not received by the course marker within 7 calendar days (inclusive) of the due date will receive an automatic mark of zero.
- v) AMCTO does not guarantee the return of late assignments by the course marker to students, in the requisite time stipulated for on-time assignments in the AMCTO Student Handbook.
- vi) AMCTO will not guarantee the return of late assignments by the course marker to students before the writing of the Final Examination.
- vii) Students can request waiver of the above stated consequences by submitting documented proof of exceptional circumstances. AMCTO may waive the consequences of a late submission of an assignment upon review of the student's request for a waiver.

4. Academic Dishonesty

- i) Academic dishonesty is defined as the misrepresentation of any element of academic work, including (but not restricted to):
 - a) Plagiarizing or copying from any source;

- b) Unauthorized use of any aids in assignments, and examinations;
 - c) Submission of work that is not one's own;
 - d) Submission of work for which credit has already been obtained;
 - e) Aiding and abetting the academic dishonesty of another student;
 - f) Absent or inadequate notation of secondary sources. Students are expected to be competent in the treatment and citing of secondary materials or to seek advice from the Association with respect to appropriate citing of materials;
 - g) Falsifying information for the purpose of gaining admission or credit to a program;
 - h) Forging or falsifying AMCTO transcripts, certificates, diplomas, or documents.
- ii) Students are responsible for being informed about the definitions and consequences of academic dishonesty. Ignorance of what academic dishonesty is or what its consequences will be is not an adequate defense.
 - iii) AMCTO instructors, staff, and markers are obligated to report suspected incidents of academic dishonesty immediately.
 - iv) Academic dishonesty found on a submitted assignment or examination will result in a mark of zero on the entire assignment or examination.
 - v) Academic dishonesty discovered after an assignment or examination has been graded will result in a rescinding of the original mark.
 - vi) Academic dishonesty discovered after a Certificate or Diploma has been awarded will result in the immediate rescinding of the Certificate or Diploma.
 - vii) Repeated instances of academic dishonesty may result in a student being expelled from the course or program.
 - viii) A student may appeal an academic dishonesty finding to the Director – Programs & Services.

5. Grade Appeals

- i) Students who wish to raise questions regarding the assessment of their academic performance, and allege error in the academic judgment of their work on the part of a marker, must first speak informally with the marker to clarify the reason for the assigned grade. In the case of anonymous markers, the Association will solicit clarification from the marker and present it to the student.

- ii) Students must raise concerns regarding grade appeals no more than 30 days after the date of return of the work in question. The date of return is defined as the date on which the student received the material either electronically or by regular mail. After this period, no grade appeal requests will be entertained.
